GEN. GRANT'S FUNERAL

The Most Imposing Spectacle Ever Witnessed in New York—Further Particulars of the Ceremony.

The Hotels Crowded with Visitors from the Surrounding Country—A Warm Day.

In addition to the particulars of General Grant's funeral on Saturday, the following additional items will be of interest to our readers: At 9:35 the word "march" was given and the drawn by twenty-four jet black horses in black wrappings, after having received the remains, moved forward. The coffin was alone for all to view, but deeply guarded. The leaders stepped forward, led by the colored men, and in an instant the black mass of horses had straightened the traces, and the wheels beneath the remains were moving. The band played a dirge. The tramp of the regulars and honor guard beat upon the pavement. The thousands beneath the trees and crowding the sides of the square looked silently upon the black funeral car rolling over the curb into Broadway, and the black corridors of the city hall were silent. General Grant's last journey was begun.

THE PALL-BEARERS.

At half-past 8 o'clock Col. Hodges summoned the pall-bearers to their carriages. They were: Gen. Sherman, Gen. Buckner, Gen. Logan, Gen. Joe Johnston, Admiral Worden and A. J. Drexel, of Philadelphia.

REMOVING THE CASKET.

The guard of honor ascended to bear down the casket. Colonel Beck formed his two companies of escort in a hollow square between the tomb and the hearse. The family carriages had drawn near. Their occupants alighted and took positions near the foot of the steps of the car, so that they stood while the casket was being removed from the car, and when it was borne into the hollow square toward the vault, the relatives followed in this order: Col. Fred Grant and wife, Mrs. Sartorie and the Colonel's children, Julia and U. S.; U. S. Grant, Jr., and wife, leading little Nellie, daughter of Jesse Grant; Jesse Grant and wife, U. S. Grant, second son of Orville Grant, with Fred Dent, Mrs. Dent, Dr. Cramp and wife, Potter Palmer and wife and Hon. John A. Creswell and wife.

The cedar case rested on the supports at the door of the sepulchre. The casket was deposited therein.

Almost the last carriage had wheeled into line at Twenty-third street when one fell in behind containing an officer with a broad gold band across his breast. Two crutches stood up in the carriage beside him and proclaimed his name as the gold scarf had announced his rank. He was Major General Daniel Sickels. Following behind the crippled veteran's carriage there trod a seemingly endless army with banners without show or gold or glitter, but with armless sleeves, the limping gait and scarred faces that stirred men's minds as they passed with deep and strong emotion. These were the who shared his danger on the field of battle, and who now walked with him to the last resting place. They were old men, most of them, but they walked bravely and kept up with the youngest. All had their badges veiled with crape, and wore bands of crape on the left arm. Their tattered banners were veiled in black and many Posts carried as distinctive badges sprigs of myrtle or evergreen on their breasts.

DEAD HERO'S COMRADES

THE PROCESSION SEEMED UNENDING, stretching southward as far as the eye could reach. The streets all the way to the tomb were packed with people. As the right of the column approached the tomb, the dull reverbations of guns from the men-of-war could be heard, and troops broke column from the left, marching to the right on each side of the road. After forming in line arms were presented and the catafalque slowly passed.

CEREMONY AT THE TOMB.

The tomb yet waited, but there came a bugle call from eastward at 4:20 o'clock, then a strain from trumpets and soon the sound of muffled drums. Carriages came into view and rolled slowly through the park to the tomb. Dr. Newton and Bishop Harris occupied the first, and the clergy, and then came Drs. Douglas, Shrady and Sands. The pall bearers came after these. General Joe Johnson rode beside General Sheridan, and Buckner and Sheridan were paired, while General Logan and ex-Secretary Boutwell followed. The pall bearers and those invited alighted and took their places near the tomb. The Davis Island band, playing Chopin's funeral march, came into view while behind, the black plumes of the funeral car could be seen. The car stopped abreast of the tomb.

THE FUNERAL SERVICES

were then proceeded with. When these had ended a trumpeter stopped close to the casket and sounded a tattoo. Little Julia then laid on the coffin a wreath to "grandpa." The guard of honor bore the

and at 5:05 o'clock placed them within the steel case, the sealing of both lead lining and steel case being performed as indicated above. The family entered the tomb, remaining only a few minutes. They then sought their carriages, and as they were entering them, the Seventh and Twenty-Second Regiments, in line on the bluff, fired three volleys toward the river, after which Battery F, Fifth Artillery, fired three salutes from the knoll toward the hotel.

The family carriages then drove away, but were not yet out of sight when persons attempted to deface the tomb by writing their names upon it. A guard of regulars was mounted at once, the military marched away, the dignitaries rode away and the long chapter was ended.

A Montreal despatch of the 31st July says: A rumor was current on the streets this morning that the Canadian Pacific railway had paid five million dollars to the Bank of Montreal, and people asked what it meant. Inquiry at the bank elicited the information that the Canadian Pacific had received five millions of treasury notes from the government in accordance with the bill passed at the last session of Parliament, and that these notes were made over to the bank and simply took the place of other securities.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

The Library.

To THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—Referring to my letter in your issue of Saturday, regarding Library and Museum, and your remarks thereon, I would suggest that you go to the Mechanics' Institute and see for yourself the notice on the door of the reading room, which is as follows: "For members only," in large print, which cannot fail to meet the eye. There is also another notice on the wall in the lobby to the following effect: "The reading room is open to members in good standing only; strangers wishing to use the room must be introduced by members." Now, strangers visiting this city are not likely to hunt all over it for a member to ask this favor. With regard to patronage, I might state that if the subscription rate were reduced to 50 cents, or 25 cents, per month, a more liberal patronage would be given to it. People will not pay one dollar per month for only the privilege of reading books, when by investing a like amount themselves in new books, they could, in a very few years, have a good library in their own homes. A public library ought to be an institution free to the general public, and open for their convenience during the day and evening. PRINCIPIA.

Trashy and Throughbare

To THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—Will you please tell the Colonist man that we did not vote him into that position because he knew something of the business, but because we thought he had a little judgment of his own. His arguments don't meet the requirements of his case anyhow; because those schools he refers to invariably obtained the services of a teacher who held a certificate above the other applicants. As for the residue of this morning's editorial, the greater part is trashy and the balance has been talked threadbare already. Could he not say something for himself and give THE TIMES a chance, as the Colonist has never explained itself, but simply commented upon what THE TIMES has said? A TAXPAYER.

Human Fossil Found at Happy Valley

To THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—If, as represented, this remarkable production has been unearthed at Happy Valley, it will naturally be a subject of great local interest, but the general impression respecting it, is, that it was never found there, but is an importation that has gained many a dollar for its present owner by previous exhibitions. That the specimen exhibited is a very great curiosity, those who have seen it will admit. Thus far, well and good, but it is due to us to ascertain for a certainty, and this can easily be done, and not to suffer ourselves to be misled by any puffing advertisements whether this fossil be a genuine local discovery, or whether we are about to be hoaxed by the exhibition of a bogus, imported article, of no local interest; and thus show to our American neighbors, to their great amusement, how easily we of Victoria can be gulled.

A CITIZEN.

Victoria, August 8th, 1885.

Riel's Sentence.

Before Judge Richardson pronounced the sentence of death on Louis Riel he asked the prisoner if he had anything to say in his defence, to which Riel made a long, rambling reply. The Judge then said: Louis Riel, you are charged with treason. You let loose the flood-gates of rapine and bloodshed, and brought ruin and death to many families, who, if let alone, were in comfort and a fair way of affluence. For what you did you have been given a fair and impartial trial. Your remarks are no excuse for your acts. You committed acts that the law demands an account for at your hands. The jury coupled to their verdict a recommendation to mercy. I can hold out no prospects for you, and I would recommend you to make your peace with God. For me, only one duty and a painful one to perform remains. It is to pass sentence upon you. If your life is spared, no one will feel more gratified than myself, but I can hold out no hope. The sentence of this court upon you, Louis Riel, is that you be taken to the guard room of the mounted police of Regina, whence you came, and kept there until September the eighteenth, and from thence to the place of execution, there to be hanged by the neck until dead, and may the Lord have mercy upon your soul.

Riel never moved a muscle, but, bowing to the court said:—"Is that on Friday, your Honor?" He was then taken from the court room, and a few minutes after was driven back, under strong escort to the guard room.

Mr. Fitzpatrick left at once for Winnipeg to enter an appeal in the Court of Queen's Bench. Riel expresses himself as quite confident that he will finally be acquitted. Since being sentenced Riel has not altered his demeanor in the least. He prays as usual and converses with the guards. This morning he requested the priest to let him assist at mass and felt greatly grieved at his refusal.

THIS DAY'S DESPATCHES

Meeting of the Czar and the Emperor of Austria.

Special to THE TIMES.

VIENNA, Aug. 10.—Extensive preparations are being made for the meeting of the Czar and the Emperor of Austria, which will take place shortly at Kremzer. The cost of the decorations and other arrangements for the meeting will reach one million florins. The greatest efforts are being put forth by the authorities to prevent any attempt being made on the life of either of the potentates. Hundreds of the most experienced and trusted of policemen and detectives have been drafted for that special service. At the town, precautions have already been taken to prevent the mining of any portion of the town, and great care is being taken in regard to the transportation of dynamite and other explosive materials. All parcels and boxes, destined for Kremzer are carefully examined before being permitted to be sent to the town. The names and occupations of the lodgers, and all strangers arriving in town have been ordered to be furnished to the police authorities by proprietors of the hotels and lodging houses. No persons will be admitted to the town after the 20th inst., without special permission.

The English Press on General Grant's Funeral

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—All the morning newspapers of to-day publish copious accounts of the funeral of General Grant. All agree that the outpouring of the people on that occasion, and their deep grief as indicated by the dispatches, were something wonderful. The Times has a special cable dispatch, three columns long, detailing the scenes and incidents of the funeral, and also prints a leading editorial praising and recalling many personal traits of the dead General. It expresses unbounded admiration for the conduct of the American people concerning the burial of Gen. Grant and pronounces it "a spontaneous outburst of national admiration and gratitude, which although it can do nothing for its actual object, it is not the less to be commended." In conclusion the Times says, no other nation, and at no former period, has the cause afforded the materials for such a procession as that of Saturday, or even the physical condition which enabled the members to come together.

Party Rancor in Ireland.

Special to THE TIMES.

DUBLIN, Aug. 9.—While a number of Orangemen were to-day returning from a farm in the county of Monaghan, where they had been cutting hay as substitutes for evicted cotants, they were met by a party of the latter in company with sympathizing friends and fearing an attack from them they fired on the crowd, wounding its chief man. Great excitement then ensued. The police had to be called out in force to preserve order, and several arrests were made. Further trouble is feared.

The Deadly Congo.

Special to THE TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 9.—The Natin says that persons entering the service of the Congo state are obliged to sign an agreement to maintain strict silence regarding the state of affairs in that country. Hostility from the natives prevents stores from reaching their destination. The climate is deadly and there is only one doctor in a territory, 300 by 600 miles in extent.

London Political Gossip

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Persia is engaging German officers to organize her army. Russia is building hurriedly a strategical railway to the Austrian frontier. Mr. Hackemer has been elected State Professor of fine arts at Oxford University. He succeeds Ruskin, who is ill.

The Conservative-Parnellite Coalition.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Mr. Herbert Gladstone, son of the ex-premier, in his assertion that an alliance had been made between the Conservatives and Parnellites stated that Baron Schwald, of Nocielle, Mr. Rowland Wynne, was promoted to the House of Lords in return for his services in arranging the contract between the two parties.

Meeting of German Ministers.

Special to THE TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—Prince Bismarck has summoned various leading German ministers to attend a convention in this city. Count Von Munster, Ambassador to England; Herr Von Radowitz, Ambassador to Turkey; Baron Von Keudiolo, Minister to Italy, and Baron Von Cholcesen, Germany's representative at Vatican, will be present at the meeting.

A Mother After her Missing Daughter.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Efforts are being made to secure the return to her mother of a missing girl, named Eliza Armstrong, who is illegally held by the Salvation army. Mrs. Armstrong accuses General Booth, leader of the Salvation Army of sending an agent to decoy her daughter from home for the purpose of making the girl a spectacle as a minor saved from a life of wickedness by the Salvation Army. The girl is thirteen years old. She has been traced to the home for fallen women, started by the Salvation Army, and thence to the town of Loreial-in Dome, France, where she again disappeared. General Booth refuses to surrender the girl and her mother has applied to the courts for action in recovering her child.

A Peaceful and Speedy Settlement

The Crawford-Dilke Scandal

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The petition in divorce proceedings, instituted by Donald Crawford against his wife, and in which Sir Charles Dilke is held co-respondent, was filed on Wednesday last. Dilke has retained ex-Attorney General James to defend him. Mr. Crawford is a barrister, and many years older than his wife. Mrs. Crawford is but twenty years of age.

MORE OF THE SCANDAL.

In order to mitigate the disastrous effects of the Crawford-Dilke scandal the Liberals are circulating a statement that Sir Charles Dilke denies he had criminal intercourse with Mrs. Crawford. That lady has withdrawn the confession made to her husband, and when put in the witness stand will declare that the confession was not true, and was made under an hysterical illusion. Mr. Crawford's friends insist that he has evidence apart from his wife's confession, but say that he will not persevere in the action unless perfectly convinced that he is perfectly justifiable and that it is absolutely necessary. The trial will be the last of a heavy list to be heard in the divorce courts in December. The name of Charles Dilke has been expunged from the list of speakers for the coming electoral campaign. Sir Charles will pass the autumn at a villa near London.

SIR CHARLES DILKE DENIES THE ACCUSATION.

Sir Charles Dilke has written to his constituents denying the truth of the accusation brought against him, and asking their forbearance until the divorce case trial, which, he says, he awaits with confidence.

The French Canadians Moving for a Pardon for Riel.

QUEBEC, Aug. 9.—A public meeting was held at St. Sauvier this morning, after high mass, for the purpose of taking steps to obtain commutation of Riel's sentence. Large numbers of French Canadians were present and several very strong speeches were made. Resolutions in accordance with the object of the meeting were passed.

Another Plague Appears at Plymouth

Special to THE TIMES.

WILKESBARRE, Pa. Aug. 10.—No sooner has typhoid fever ceased to rage in the unfortunate town of Plymouth than it is succeeded by another plague scarcely less terrible. A severe form of dysentery is now prevalent in Plymouth, Kingston and vicinity, to an alarming extent, and it is even more deadly than the fever. It is a disease that has always been frequent in Plymouth and neighboring towns during the summer, but never before were there half as many cases as at present, nor was the disease as violent and fatal in its results. There are over 150 cases now under treatment.

Still Marching Forward.

SUAKIM, Aug. 10.—A force of Abyssinian troops, sent by King John, has relieved the garrison of four thousand, at Jarri, south of Kassala.

Revival Mission

Yesterday was the "field day" in the Y. M. C. A. religious warfare. All the services under the direction of Dr. Graves were well attended, and both the afternoon and evening meetings were packed, and the interest very intense. In the evening a powerful appeal was made from the text: "Is it well with thee? Is it well with thy husband? Is it well with thy child? And she answered, it is well." At the close of this sermon a meeting for religious inquiry and instruction was held, to which a large number responded. The meetings will be continued during this week every afternoon and evening. "The funeral of the anvil," is the subject for to-night.

The Dead Chinaman

The body of the dead Chinaman found on Saturday in the bush, lat issue, Colquhoun and Todd bays, was in an advanced stage of decomposition. Death must have taken place a number of weeks ago, though. Boyreeff had the remains removed to the city, and at an inquest held this afternoon a verdict of found dead was returned. The usual investigation will be established.

Filipino Fowling

We have received from the firm of J. Dunsmuir & Co., a Filipino fowling piece, which is really a curiosity. It is made of wood, and is about 6 feet long. The barrel is made of bamboo, and the lock is of native manufacture. The stock is very neatly carved, and the whole affair is very neat looking. It is a curiosity in its way, and will be sent to the Exhibition.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Grand Trunk Railway authorities have agreed to transfer the North Shore Railway to the Canadian Pacific Railway.

A RUMOR has gained currency here that HON. ALEX. MACKENZIE will resign his seat for East York and accept the vacant Registrarship of Middlesex.

GEN. SIR P. L. M'DOUGALL, K. C. M. G., Colonel 2nd West India Regiment, who a few years ago had charge of the Canadian militia, retires on retired pay.

HON. JOHN COSTIGAN, Minister of Inland Revenue was banquetted in the capital last week by his numerous friends, and presented with a handsome brick residence and grounds.

IT is understood that the Conservative party will nominate C. W. BERTHON as their candidate for the representation of East Durham, in the Dominion Parliament, in the place of the late COL. WILLIAMS.

LIEUT.-COL. STRATHCHIE has returned, and looks extremely well after the campaign. He speaks in the highest terms of GEN. MIDDLETON, and says if ever a man earned $20,000, GEN. MIDDLETON did, and too much credit could not be given him for the manner in which he conducted the campaign.

MORE THAN once has attention been directed to the fact that the transportation of the Australian mail via San Francisco to Great Britain has been abandoned through a disagreement between the U. S. postal authorities and the American railroads. The latter have been receiving in the past $100,000 annually from the British government for this service. It would be interesting to know what efforts the Dominion government are making, to have this service transferred to the Canadian Pacific railroad after its through opening. That sum would be a handsome addition to the revenues of the Canadian Pacific, and that which benefits the company benefits the whole Dominion.

THE story told on their return from the Northwest by the Protestant members of the 65th battalion, of their treatment by COLONEL OUIMET, M. P., because they refused to attend a corpus christi profession, is one which warrants all the adverse comments passed by the press upon the intolerable bigotry of the commanding officer of that regiment. So serious was the affair it now appears, that the officers of the Winnipeg battalion—a Protestant regiment—had all they could do to prevent the men from attacking the Sixty-fifth.

ALL accounts from the Canadian Northwest agree in stating that the crops are without blemish. The following is an extract from the report of the manager of the Merchants' Bank at Winnipeg:—"From all quarters come the most glowing accounts as to grain crops. Wheat, barley, oats and pease crops are alike very fine. The wheat is fast heading up, and from present appearances we are likely to have such a harvest as has not been seen for many years. The weather has been wonderfully fine, warm days with occasional showers, and, so far, very little wind or heavy fall of rain or hail."

THE stock of gold in the U. S., has materially increased during the past fiscal year. At the end of June, 1884, the United States treasury held $134,610,049 in gold, and the New York banks $64,182,000, making a total of $198,821,249. At the end of June, 1885, the treasury held $119,408,220 in gold, and the New York banks $113,956,699, making a total of $233,404,829, and showing a total increase of $34,643,571. The excess of imports over exports of gold during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1885, was $18,212,804. The production of the mines is $30,000,000 annually. These two items amount to $48,212,804, which is $13,567,767 more than the increase in the stock in the New York banks and in the treasury. The difference represents less than the amount consumed in the arts and in the manufactures, and there is besides a considerable allowance to be made for coin taken abroad by travelers in Europe. It is clear, therefore, that gold is neither being hoarded out of the country nor hoarded in private hands, but flows into the banks and into the treasury faster than it goes out.

HE THROWS UP THE SPONGE.

Finding itself completely baffled and driven to the wall, the Colonist, "dog-like returning to his vomit" for argument advances personalities, and so completely begs the whole question that it has made itself the laughing stock of every honest, right-thinking person in the city. From the very commencement of the discussion it became apparent that THE TIMES had the "drop" on the Colonist, and wriggle as it might the stern facts still remained unanswered by the governmental subsidized hireling. It were folly to expect anything else from that source. THE TIMES, in the estimation of the bloated would-be autocrat of the Colonist, may only be a "beetle." Nevertheless it has proved itself to be to that individual a very troublesome insect, which yet may so annoy him and upset his equanimity to such a degree that an extra ward will have to be secured in New Westminster for his safe keeping.

Those who are familiar with the Colonist's past career will require something more than its mere assurance that there was no crookedness at work. It is an easy matter to assert that THE TIMES has stated that which is not true; such a line of argument we have heard advanced before. The greatest scoundrel and criminal when brought to the bar of justice will set up the plea of "not guilty." The charges preferred against the trustees by THE TIMES were simply that of dereliction of duty, inasmuch as that they accepted the application of a lady possessing a lower grade certificate in preference to that of another lady holding a higher one, and who was well known as a thorough and efficient teacher in our central school. That their doing so, was such a strange proceeding that, failing a satisfactory explanation being advanced for their conduct, they left themselves open to the charge of having been influenced in their decision by one or two political tricksters forming a portion of the trustees. Of course the Colonist could not help denying the political imputation charged. It is paid to attend to the dirty work of its masters, and the dirtier the puddle the better for the pelican of the Colonist. In vain it sets up the plea that the trustees acted on precedents established by those in charge of our schools in years gone by. This is the veriest bosh and should never be advanced as a palliation for a grossly wrong act. If it was wrong in their predecessors to act as the Colonist says they did, it was doubly so for the present trustees. When the Colonist says that the trustees were not aware of MISS ARMSTRONG'S relationship to the sheriff of New Westminster, it simply utters a pure falsehood, manufactured out of whole cloth. If the rumor turns out to be the truth that the application of Miss ARMSTRONG was put in after the others had been read and considered, and that her appointment was a compromise then the iniquity becomes still greater. That lady may have been a successful teacher in the east, but the fact of her having attended a collegiate institution or high school in Port Hope, does not necessarily imply that her qualifications are as high as if she had attended and graduated as a teacher at the Normal Schools of either Toronto or Ottawa. That lady fully understands that it is a principle we are contending for, that which is recognized in Ontario probably more so than in any other country; and we defy the Colonist, the government, and all such as attempt a defence of the questionable act to point out a solitary instance in Ontario, where a similar course to that followed by our modern would-be "Daniels come to judgment" of the school board was adopted. If the editor of the Colonist wishes to emulate that province in her unrivalled educational system he has, beyond doubt, made a very bad start. But although a grievious and an erring sinner, there is hope for him yet. THE TIMES will act as his tutor, and the advice tendered him may be productive of good results in the future. We are not through with him yet.

THE MACKENZIE COUNTRY.

The rebellion in the Northwest has been of some benefit to Canada in directing public attention to that great northern country, on the southern skirt of which military operations were carried on. It must not be supposed that the region of muskeg and scrub through which GENERAL MIDDLETON chased BIG BEAR is a fair specimen of the vast tract that lies beyond the North Saskatchewan. At Athabasca Landing, only ninety miles north of Edmonton, the navigable waters of the Mackenzie are reached, and from there to Fort Simpson, in North Latitude 62, the traveler passes through a rich timber district, while between Simpson and the Arctic circle, four degrees further north, lie enormous forests which will some day be turned to good account. At Simpson the spruce grows to a diameter of two feet. The Hudson's Bay officers raise potatoes, barley, and even a little wheat; but it is much too far north to admit of profitable farming, and the future of the region rests upon its timber and mineral resources, which are very great. Petroleum, gypsum, coal and salt are found in abundance. The Mackenzie with its tributaries, and the Slave and Great Bear lakes swarm with fish, and here and there alluvial gold occurs. As yet, however, little is known of this country. It is in the hands of the Slave, Lahaunie, Dog-Rib, Loucieux, and Montagnais Indians, who trade with the Hudson Bay people; but the company's officers, who are never over sanguine in such matters, say that the watershed of the Mackenzie covers by far the richest gold field in Canadian territory. It will be time enough, however, to think of opening up this terra incognita when we have carried the railroad to Prince Albert, Battleford and Edmonton.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

(Toronto Mail, July 31.)

The British Columbia papers are wondering what is to become of that province when the expenditure on railroad construction ceases. Probably the best course will be for the people to go to work. For fifteen years they have confined themselves to the business of manufacturing claims against the Dominion government. Both political parties in Ottawa can testify to their almost superhuman energy in that particular line. But there is no longer any money in the industry; it has exhausted itself. The Dominion has squared accounts with the province "positively for the last time," and there is now nothing for it but to get down to manual labor. This may come hard at first; toil is never sweet to the new beginner; but, provided they do not conjure up some new claims, our Pacific friends will probably grow accustomed to it. About five millions of people at this end of Canada have done nothing but work all their life, and they are not dead yet.

A province possessing a sea board, valuable sea and inland fisheries, the best coal mines on the Pacific coast, a mild climate, a large area of good land and a vast wealth of timber, should have no difficulty in making a living. The gold mines have yielded a handsome return, over $50,000,000 in all, since the discovery of the precious metal there in 1858; and the miners say they are by no means exhausted. But leaving gold out of the question, the natural resources of the country are sufficiently rich to tempt capital if labor can be found. That appears to be the one great want. The Chinese are employed on the railway and in the salmon canneries of the Fraser simply because white hands cannot be got. The completion of the Canadian Pacific will enable the provincial authorities to enter Europe in search of immigrants, and few candidates in that field have as much in their favor as British Columbia. She presents just as good an opening as any of the Australian colonies, and has an advantage of them in distance. As a grazing district the inland plateau between Lytton, the Lower Ford of the Bonaparte and the boundary, is unsurpassed; while in the valleys of the Lower Thompson, the Okanagan, the Similkameen, and other rivers, wheat grows well and fruit of all kinds luxuriantly. In the southern portion of the province the delta lands of the Fraser are very fertile, and mixed husbandry is prosecuted with profit. Along the coast the chief source of wealth is the Douglas fir. These forests extend through the interior up to the foot-hills of the Rocky mountains, but the tree attains its most gigantic proportions on the coast, where the huge red cedar is also found. The timber finds a ready market among the ship-builders of Puget Sound and San Francisco, and, with the coal measures, should prove a veritable bonanza. Salmon fishing is already an important industry, but the deep sea fisheries of cod and halibut have hardly been disturbed as yet, much less developed. All that is needed to make British Columbia prosperous is population, which the railway will bring her; and energy, for which the people must look to themselves.

THE people of Canada generally will be glad to learn that the Imperial authorities have promoted the commander of the late Northwest expedition. The London Gazette contains the following appointment: COL. F. D. MIDDLETON, C. B., from Lieut.-Col., half-pay, commanding the militia in the Dominion of Canada, with the local rank of Major-General, to be Major-General, vice G. N. BOLDERO, placed on the retired list.

The Montreal Herald, HON. JOHN MITCHELL'S paper, warns the government to be careful in selecting the new Minister of the Interior, and then adds—the war is over in the Northwest and the days of plain speaking have returned. We wish now to warn the government in regard to its management of the interior. Unless a radical change be made here before Parliament will have assembled there will be such an indictment against the department prepared as will shake the very foundations of the government. The HON. PETER MITCHELL, both in and out of Parliament, expresses great independence; his vote at all times, however, can be relied on by the government.

The Home of Yellow Jack.

[Sylvia B. Ward's Mexico Letter.]

In Vera Cruz, whenever an old wall is disturbed or a street dug into, the fever is sure to break out with redoubled force in that locality, which proves that the germs are always present, though sometimes dormant till disturbed. Two years ago the disease was particularly prevalent, because the main street had been torn up for laying a car track. During seasons of epidemic, when Vera Cruz is crowded with the dying—though the hospitals are many and nurses faithful—stranger patients need not expect much care. Money cannot buy nor Christian charity bestow that for which the demand is so much greater than the supply.

Frightful tales are told of numbers who have escaped being buried alive—and alas! only on the resurrection day can it be known how many poor wretches have actually met that terrible fate. Last year, as the driver of the cart which conveys corpses from hospital to cemetery was making his nocturnal journey, he was frightened nearly out of his senses by one of the cadavers suddenly kicking the cover off his coffin and demanding to know his destination? Others, but carefully buried, have been known to unearth themselves and have been found sitting at the cemetery gates in the morning, easily attired in winding sheets.

Your correspondent can testify from personal experience that yellow fever, when not contracted during a time of violent epidemic, is by no means the worst sickness under the sun. Everything depends upon careful nursing, and possibly somewhat upon temperate habits and the previous condition of the system. The majority do not die, and it must be remembered that only the number of deaths are recorded, not the thousands who recover. It certainly has the advantage over the Roman fever, typhoid and kindred diseases, in that one is quickly killed or cured, and there are no secondary stages nor bad effects lingering in the blood.

When I fell into unconsciousness one hot March morning—after vainly "kicking against the pricks" for many days—the Vera Cruz friends seemed to regard it in the light of a pleasant joke which could have but one happy termination, viz., immunity from future danger. The brave little lady in whose house we were has nursed many of her country people through the fever, and not one has died.

Queer Corean Customs.

The primitive sackcloth is still the mourning raiment of the Coreans. During a visit paid by the squadron under the command of Admiral Willes to ports on the east coast of Corea, the officials were wearing "grayish hempen garments," which in that country denote mourning, and the admiral was informed that the whole nation had gone into mourning for a year for the queen, who had died in consequence of the shock to her feelings caused by the proceedings of the rioters at Seoul. In the matter of dress generally the Coreans are favorably spoken of, nearly every one being decently dressed, and a real well-dressed Corean, in his broad hat and whitest robes, is said to have an eminently respectable and well-to-do appearance.

Their towns, however, offer a distinct contrast, sanitary science being little understood, and architecture not having got beyond a rudimentary stage, but in one respect they seem to be ahead of the world. The angles from the first joints of the pans in Eunu beneath the roof of the house, and although the chimney is protected in an incongruous way into the street, the whole building is warmed by a limited expenditure of fuel.

A Seventy Dollar Toy Gun.

[Chicago Herald.]

There is a rage among owners of yachts for yacht cannon. There are no pirates upon Lake Michigan, and cannons are not needed to defend the craft, but they are so pretty. They are "the thing" in yachting elegance, and the true yachtsman can never be happy until he plants one in the bow of his boat. A Yankee firm, of Connecticut location, is catering to this love for cannon by manufacturing a little brass gun about eighteen inches long, with an inch and a quarter bore. It is set upon a carriage of regulation navy shape, and is as complete in all particulars as if it had really done duty on board a brig and a man-of-war. It is a cute and pretty plaything, with its shining surface almost as bright as gold, but expensive. It cost $70.

Jews in France.

[Exchange.]

According to statistics published by The Judische Press, there were in Paris in 1791 barely 700 Jews. In 1806 the number had mounted to 7,000, in 1842 to 12,000, in 1872 to 40,000, and at the present day the Jewish population is believed to exceed 50,000. In 1871 the French army had in its ranks a Jewish general, Baron Wolff, one chief of battalion and three captains. In 1870 there served under the French flag five Jewish generals, five colonels, nine majors, twenty-five heads of battalions, ninety captains, eighty-nine lieutenants and 104 sub lieutenants.

Leather Injured by Perspiration.

[Boston Herald.]

The peculiar acid which exudes from the pores of the body acts directly upon the leather, and takes the "life" out, rendering it stiff and hard. In a pair of shoes recently returned to a prominent manufacturer the uppers were moist with sweat the entire day. The kid leather when it hardened, was so brittle that it could be torn and cracked like paper. The destruction was caused by perspiration of the feet. New shoes from the same maker, and of the same material, were entirely sound and firm.

A Temperance Suggestion.

[New Orleans Picayune.]

Let all judges and colonels drink only such drinks as they buy for themselves, and they will find temperatively wise is not useful free.

THE SLEEPING-ROOM

OF THE PETTED DAUGHTER OF A MANY-MILLIONAIRE.

A Most Beautiful, Cosy, In-Every-Way Delightful Place—Perfect Home Discipline—The Family Living-Room—Happiness.

["Uncle Bill" in Chicago Herald.]

Would you like to see how a New York belle of millionairism sleeps? I can gratify you, so far as to describe with literal exactness the bed-room of a young woman whose name is printed, as often as anybody's in the society reports. Into it I was conducted, quite in the same matter-of-course way that the little lady of the house did everything that she willed, and there we found the bulwhack which we were seeking for me to criticize or admire. But I confess I had eyes only for the room. It was quite as interesting to me as if it had been the bower of a princess; more so, in fact, for it is seldom one sees behind the scenes in a princess' life than in those of a young American millionairess. The theatres endeavor to acquaint the masses with the interiors of great mansions, places, and abodes of the wealthy, but they show us only the drawing-rooms and dining rooms. I suggest that they specially vouchsafe to us all a view of the bed-room of a young lady of fashion. I don't know how they can do it, exactly, but that is for them to find out.

I never saw a more beautiful, cosy, in-every-way delightful place than the sleeping-room of this young princess of fashion—this eldest child of a many-millionaire. The wall paper was pale gold on faint slate color. The gilt beddead was pushed against a square of plaited silk of pale gold, with slate colored silk bows at the corners. Just such another square of plaited silk rose to the ceiling above the wash-stand. On that were only pitcher, bowl, soap dish and so on, because running water is presumed to invite sewer gas, but all of the choicest ware. A great sheet of beveled looking glass, six feet high, swung on brass rods above the floor in one corner for the young woman to see her whole attire in. She had also a handsome folding glass to reflect her ears, back hair and neck.

There was an open fire-place, besides the hot air register; a dressing stand laden with pretty toilet boxes and bottles; an ivory clock like a bird cage, in which ivory canaries trilled sweetly as each hour began; easy chairs and a rocking chair to match the wall paper and furniture; a pretty little prie-dieu for the young woman to say her prayers upon as fashionably as possible, and a wealth of little elegancies completing a general effect that was exquisite, dainty and inviting beyond computation. Opening out of this room the young millionairess had another apartment, where she wrote and painted and "worked," so to speak, but I did not see it.

It was while I was in her sleeping-room that I noticed that nowhere in the whole house during a whole day's stay had I seen a single hint of disorder—no shoes in sight, no article of clothing lying on a chair or bed, no litter of any sort—everything, in short, as neatly ordered as if I was a critic invited to call and see the perfection of home discipline. I confess that a tiny pair of kid slippers peeping from under the edge of the bed, or a hat and pair of gloves thrown upon a chair, would have made the room more interesting by connecting the maiden with it, but it was the rule of the house for such things not to be. Think of it. Eight servants to wait upon four persons.

The room in which the family assembled for conversation and the entertainment of company was across the hall from the parlor. It was quite as elaborately furnished as the parlor, but the carpet, chairs and various appointments were not quite so new; in fact, they were worn just enough to be comfortable. The two front windows and one at the side commanded a general view of Fifth avenue, and I noticed while I was there that the ladies watched what went on in the street with the same curiosity their poorer sisters possess; but they sat so far back from the space between the window curtains that, while they could see everybody, nobody could see them from the street.

I noticed, also, that when a friend called at the house, if either mother or daughter saw the visitor in time, she would go to the door herself before the person had time to ring the bell. And I observed another thing. There must have been $10,000 in china, glass, bronze and marble in this sitting-room, distributed over a couple of hundred little things useful and things ornamental. The members of the household would be glad to talk of any of these beautiful articles, would say what they were, where they came from, and all about them—except the price. Money and price and cost, subjects so commonly discussed by those of us who are obliged to think of such trifles, were never mentioned.

The folding doors between the front room and the next room were never drawn together while I was there. This next room was the library, walled in by book-cases of carved wood and beveled plate glass. The man of the house invited me in there to smoke and read. He had daily papers, all of them, on the center table, two or three easy chairs, a drop light and a grate fire. He went to his room when he came in, exchanged his shoes for slippers and his coat for a loose jacket; then flung himself in a chair, lighted a cigar, and tried to rest, while either his wife or his daughter sat on an ottoman at his feet, or on the arm of the chair he occupied. Wealth and happiness are said to be often strangers; these appeared to be the happiest people imaginable.

What the Pageant Cost.

[London Letter.]

The cost of the lord lord mayor's pageant was $19,000; $8,570 on dinners, $5,195 on the procession, $2,195 on decorations, $530 on music, $1,335 on printing, and $1,075 on general expenses. Of this sum the new lord mayor contributed $10,000 and each of the sheriffs $5,000. These figures lead London Truth to remark that there may possibly come a time when lord mayors and sheriffs will be elected for some other reason than that they are prepared to spend money on such bonfire-drills.

The Good of Mind-Reading.

William A. Hovey of The Electrical Review, says in answer to the question: What is the good of this? he can only answer by analogy, and claims that in the science of mind-reading we have reached a point where we know the fact, but don't know the reason why. But eventually we shall learn the laws under which these things occur, and will also learn how to apply them.

Imitation Stamped Leather.

[Brooklyn Eagle.]

Stamped leather has been much used for interior decoration of late years, but it is asserted that most of it is made out of paper and covered with a thin layer of leather pulp made out of old heels and shoes and the stock of factories. Similar material is used by carriage makers, book binders and picture frame makers.

Advertising Cheats!!!

"It has become so common to begin an article, in an elegant, interesting style,

"Then run it into some advertisement that we avoid all such,

And simply call attention to the merits of Hop Bitters in as plain, honest terms as possible,

"To induce people

"To give them one trial, which so proves their value that they will never use anything else."

"The Remedy so favorably noticed in all the papers,

Religious and secular, is

"Having a large sale, and is supplanting all other medicines.

"There is no denying the virtues of the Hop plant, and the proprietors of Hop Bitters have shown great shrewdness and ability * * *

"In compounding a medicine whose virtues are so palpable to every one's observation."

Did She Die?

"No!

"She lingered and suffered along, pining away all the time for years."

"The doctors doing her no good;"

"And at last was cured by this Hop Bitters the papers say so much about!"

"Indeed! Indeed!"

"How thankful we should be for that medicine."

A Daughter's Misery.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery.

"From a complication of kidney, liver, rheumatic trouble and Nervous debility,

"Under the care of the best physicians,

"Who gave her disease various names,

"But no relief.

"And now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had shunned for years before using it."—The Parents.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—The police court was very quiet this morning—only one drunk.

—The Ancon sailed at 3 o'clock for Sitka and way ports. Several Victorians are among the passengers.

—During the month of July Nanaimo exported 19,620 tons of coal and 100 tons of iron ore.

—Miss A. S. Bailey, formerly lady Principal of the Nanaimo schools, is now engaged at the Cadboro Bay school.

—Work has been commenced on the Nanaimo depot, and is under the supervision of Mr. W. E. Blackett.

—Van Volkenburgh's large meat wagon carried an enormous load of beef today. It required six horses to haul it.

—Thirteen more Chinese came by the Queen, and twenty-two white men in the steerage.

—The Theatre Comique promise a new change of programme to-night, consisting of new songs, dances and other attractions.

—Tom Palmer, a noted light weight pugilist is in the city making arrangements for his coming match with Young Dutchey.

—The Inland Sentinel does not credit the report published by a city contemporary, that a miner named Jeff Davis had been shot in the Big Bend country.

—The Queen of the Pacific brought 1255 tons of freight—324 for Victoria, 430 for Port Townsend, and 501 for Seattle, and 110 for Tacoma.

—Daniel Perry, an old citizen, was taken in charge by the police yesterday and placed in gaol for safe keeping. The poor man's mind seems to have entirely gone.

—C. D. Rand has resumed business and has taken an office on Bastion street over Dr. Chipp's where he will carry on business as a real estate broker and insurance agent.

—William Multhrup, late proprietor of the St. Lawrence Hotel in Winnipeg, fell from the Stony creek bridge, near Donald in this province, a distance of 238 feet, and was instantly killed.

—It is too early to predict just what style of parasol will be fashionable the coming summer, but they will be worn, as usual, just high enough to rake out a man's eye.

—Mrs. Davis, who is no stranger to the police, entertains prominent anti-Chinese feelings. Meeting a Celestial on Yates street this morning she at once collared him and mashed him on the head with her fist.

—The Amity B.B. Club have postponed their visit to Portland till Thursday, Aug. 20th, on account of the Geo. E. Starr leaving next Thursday and having insufficient accomodations for them and their friends.

—The first chest of tea landed on the dock at Tacoma was for W. P. Prichard, who has two sons in business at Yokohama. They sent him four chests as a present, per the Isabel.

—Van Volkenburg received 225 sheep and J. Parker 100, by the Olympian to-day. J. West also received 43 hogs. The importations in this line during the present summer have been very large.

—A horse belonging to Mr. Williams caused a commotion on Government street to-day, by pulling down a post which supported part of the verandah in front of the Standard office. No particular damage was done.

—A new ten-pin alley is being erected on Yates street, next to Me Wah's laundry, by Mr. Geo. Baker. The last alley in use in Victoria was some three years ago. The past time is a healthful and invigorating one, and there is little doubt that the new alley will be well patronized.

—The Olympian to-day brought freight for M McLellan, J Weiler, Horner & Son, J Cameron, J Cunningham, Kelly Bros, Royal City P M, Van Volkenburg, J Wilson, Delaney & Co, J B Ferguson, T McNeely, H Saunders, S T Brewster, J West, J Parker.

—Thirty more unemployed men left Winnipeg for the Canadian Pacific. Recruits are now being solicited for the Galt line, which is located 800 miles west of Winnipeg, and it is probable that three or four hundred men will sign the conditions and be ready to leave that city early this week.

—The Northern Pacific's through westbound traffic at present is very large. The other day fourteen cars left the St. Paul Union depot. The coaches were well filled with first-class travelers, and the Pullman with Yellowstone Park excursionists. There were from twenty-five to thirty of the latter.

—The Kamloops Sentinel says that for some time men have been engaged in timbering up the tunnels east of Tete and No. 2 and a few more are completed. While a party were working at No. 8, near Big Tunnel, part of the hanging rock gave way, and three men were considerably injured.

—It appears that the Colonist is no more an authority on railway matters than it has of late proved itself to be on other topics. The Kamloops Sentinel, in referring to the Cariboo tunnel and other sections of the line says: Since a party in the Colonist pronounced the railway finished to west of Lytton, $100,000 has been spent, and the road is not done yet.

—The new Chinese theatre building on Cormorant street, which was to have been opened to-night by a combined company of Chinese and white men, has been condemned by the authorities, as it does not conform to the building by-law. The grand opening will probably be deferred until the structure is completed according to the requirements of the law.

—Counterfeit $5 bank of British North America bills were in circulation last week at St. Thomas, Ontario, and a couple of merchants were nipped. The tellers in the Traders' and Merchants' Banks, have seen the bogus bills which are perfect duplicates of the genuine ones, except that they are not dated and have two dark lines under the figure "5." Look out for them!

—The Mainland Guardian says: Ewen & Company have completed their season's pack and their establishment is closed for the time. Salmon are still running in unprecedently large numbers. It is said that a great deal of the waste formerly practised here, but subsequently stopped, is again in full operation. The fish are taken, the bellies cut out, and the backs thrown into the river. This is a shameful waste of good food and should not be permitted.

—About fifteen Chinamen were returned to Victoria to-day by the United States authorities at Port Townsend, having been caught in the act of stealing into the country without being in possession of the talismanic certificates. During the past smuggling Mongolians across the boundary line has been a one-sided transaction, in which those engaged were deterred the benefit of a return cargo. But when our restrictive law goes into operation, the smuggling of Celestials will be reciprocal and those engaged in the trade will be enabled to carry their live freight both ways. "It's an ill wind that blows nobody any good."

THE OFFICIAL INVESTIGATION.

Continuation of the Examination into Cause of Accident.

The following evidence was taken on Saturday:—

Wm. Fisher, sworn—Was a passenger on the Enterprise; saw the Rithet about three miles off. Did not notice the Enterprise take a sheer; wondered why the Rithet was so near our course and thought she intended to take inside passage. Thought the Rithet had put her helm to starboard. Did not see Captain Rudlin after the accident; did not see the taest of Enterprise fall. Saw three or four men getting out a boat; they did not seem under any direction; did not hear an order given; I think I could have got on to the Enterprise; am almost sure that I could; first time I saw Capt. Rudlin was in a boat going to the Slope; am positive I heard no orders given by any officer. Did not see Captain Insley.

David Kennedy, sworn:—Was assistant engineer of the Rithet, and hold a second class certificate. Heard a whistle, and cock sang out the Enterprise was coming; they said she was coming into us, and then ran to the other side and said "here she is again." The engines were going astern about fifteen minutes before I heard the crash; she backed about a minute. Saw Capt. Rudlin hold up his hands to stop engine, which I did. Could not hear any orders; Capt. Insley asked me if there was any water in her; sent James Link to see and he said there was none. Noticed wheel ropes going back and forward, as though the man at the wheel hesitated as to which way to put it.

Robert Ward was also examined, but his evidence was somewhat similar to that given before the Coroner.

James Link, water tender on the Rithet, Jas. McCarthy, chief engineer, Thomas Hampton, a deck hand, and Thomas Vincent, steward, were also examined on Saturday, but their testimony was in general a repetition of that already given.

Donald Urquhart, sworn:—Was Captain of Pilot, and am a master mariner. I went out in the Pilot to the scene of the accident; weather was fine and clear. A vessel as a rule will take a sheer when rounding that point. At the time of the accident it would be strong flood tide. In my opinion it all depends whether you are watching a boat well whether you take a sheer or not; have come round at that stage of tide and did not take a sheer. Had I been on the Enterprise I think I would have starboarded her helm. Not knowing how far off vessels were of each other cannot say, but if I found I was on the starboard of the Rithet I would have kept her so even after hearing the Rithet's whistle, if I could have saved collision by it. In my opinion, the accident was caused by adhering too strictly to the rules of the road, that is in regard to the whistles and old style of sailing.

William Meyers, sworn.—Am captain of the Western Slope; the Slope was at Powder Works, Cadboro Bay, at time of collision; I saw the boats before the accident going so close that I thought they were going to take a passenger from one to the other. After the collision I let go and went to their assistance, and took the Enterprise in tow. It is difficult to say what I might have done under the circumstances; but I think if the Enterprise had gone contrary to whistles and kept to the starboard, when they saw a collision was imminent, I do not believe the accident would have taken place. The Rithet was not going too close to the shore. If they had both kept a port helm after whistling they would have gone clear, but it was too late when the Enterprise struck the tide.

The proceedings were adjourned till to-morrow at 10 30 a. m.

IMPORTANT SUIT AT BARKERVILLE.

In the County Court, Cariboo, Judge Harrison Presiding.

An Important Decision, Interesting to Teachers and Others.

J. R. Stirling, late teacher of the Barkerville public school, plaintiff, vs. James Stone, Hugh Watt, Angelo Pandola and J. R. Nason, defendants. This interesting case, in which judgment has just been delivered in favor of plaintiff for full amount claimed, that is $200, with costs, as against the two last named defendants, came up for hearing in this court last September, when judgment was reserved. The cause was briefly as follows: Some four years ago a portion of the good people of Barkerville, wishing to procure the services of an efficient schoolmaster for their school, and knowing that the allotted salary was insufficient inducement, agreed to supplement the government grant by private subscription. A document was prepared containing a promise to pay annually to the Barkerville teachers the amount subscribed. The sums following the various signatures amounted in all close on to $200. On the strength of this the then Secretary of the Board of School Trustees, Mr. Charles Wilson, telegraphed the late Superintendent, Mr. C. C. McKenzie, urging him to procure a teacher immediately, and stating that the trustees would guarantee a suitable man an addition of $200 per annum. Mr. Stirling was communicated with, resigned his position, accepted the terms offered, and at once betook himself to Barkerville, where he remained three years, and proved himself a successful, painstaking teacher. During this period the plaintiff at various times requested payment of the extra sum promised, but received only a small fraction thereof and could obtain neither settlement nor compromise until finally the trustees denied all liability. The pleas set up were: That a board of school trustees is not a body corporate capable of legally becoming bound individually as charged by the plaintiff; that the defendants, Pandola and Nason, were not legally bound by an alleged unauthorized agreement, to which they had never assented and were ignorant of, entered into by their Secretary and contained in a document of which they were ignorant; that Secretary Wilson should have been made a defendant and that he alone (if any) was chargeable. This in face of the fact that both of these gentlemen had received portions of the money subscribed, that one of them had by his colleagues been appointed collector and paid over the money collected to the plaintiff; but with the blissful ignorance and forgetfulness which sometimes overtakes an honest witness they were quite unable to explain or account for giving the money to the plaintiff. The Secretary's books were produced in court, and the negligent, unbusiness-like appearance they presented was apparently relied upon in this last plea, as there were no records of any meetings held or of any business transacted during many months about the period referred to. Possibly the said Secretary, Charles Wilson, would have been saddled with the debt had he not put in an affidavit, as we are informed, charging the defendants, Pandola and Nason with equal knowledge and responsibility with himself. That in any event there was no intention of paying the plaintiff more than $200 extra, while the defendants, Stone and Watt, acquiesced in the moral justice of the plaintiff's demands they were apparently not legally bound by an action of their predecessors, which was not included in their prescribed duties, and made no effort to effect a settlement, but flouted the just claims of the plaintiff. Great dissatisfaction and general disapprobation was manifested by our people with the despicable spirit entertained by the defendants towards a faithful servant. Several subscribers to the fund immediately they saw how the matter stood, and before suit was instituted, declared that under any circumstance it was a debt of honor and ungradgingly paid the full amount subscribed. Among these we might mention Mr. Mason and Mr. Munroe, late of the Hudson Bay store, who were two of the heaviest subscribers and obtained no direct benefit from the school. In contrast to this we might mention a man high in authority, receiving nearly double Mr. S's salary with not one half the ability, who, hoping to escape costs, at last moment offered to pay his money into court, at same time hounding on and shouting for the defendants. Happy government! to procure such a representative!

Trial of Self-Binders.

The trial of self-binders on Saturday was witnessed by over one hundred people, principally farmers. Each machine cut two swathes around a field of eight acres, and although all worked satisfactorily, a few slight mishaps to one or two of the competing reapers detracted somewhat from the result. At the conclusion of the trial the judges gave an award in favor of the Osborne, of which Mr. Prior is the representative.

Indians Sentenced.

Five Indians tried by Judge Bolton at Battleford, have been sentenced as follows: Big Belly, alias Louis, a Cree, fourteen years for having set fire to the saw mill of John Oliver at Frog Lake. Another Cree, White Face, six years for horse stealing. Three others known as Pa-pa-ke-se-taw-se, Si-ah-ka-wa-kans and Wy-as-si-ky-im, six years each for stealing cattle.

A Mica Mine.

A letter from the Cariboo road said that the mica discovery convenient to Bridge creek is in a prosperous condition. The company has taken out a small consignment of most perfect mica, which they have shipped to England, to parties with whom they have been corresponding for some time past. The mica fever has taken such a hold on some that parties are now pre-empting a claim adjoining the present company's grounds.
